

The Smelly Castle

Once there was a lovely princess who lived in a castle. It was dusty that it made the princess eyes water so badly that the princess fell on the ground and woke back up and then she rushed outside to get some air. "Finally some air!" she shouted. The farm animals came out first came the nasty calf and ran maa maa second one came the awful dog then third one came was the pretty cat.

The princess is lovely because she makes us laugh so hard also she will make a tree hut with us the hut always looks cool.

The house shook it got a fright that calf died as well as the dog and cat when I got outside I said where are the calf, dog, and cat. Then after that day I found out that they died so that day I skipped and saw my family. I asked them are you alright. Yes are you. Yes but the cat calf and dog died in the earthquake we go really sad because all my other animals always died. This is my sixteenth time so after that I never go any animals ever again. But I'm just disappointed and sad to that my house has falling down! Then we felt the ground shaking. We quickly ran where there were no trees so we were safe and we then went and celebrated that we didn't died.

On the other one it was fantastic that we could celebrate everyone in our family came. Then the Prince asked "Thank you for coming and celebrating that we didn't die in the earth quake". Everyone started to cry so badly that they fell on the ground. And then the Prince should it's alright we are alive there's nothing to cry about. They just crept out then they all left the house and walked to their homes.
